

Zillertal Alps Nature Park

Dear Nature Park Enthusiast,

Our Nature Park is a high alpine conservation area in the truest sense of the words. It extends from the traditional mountaineering village of Ginzling to the Hochfeiler Peak at 3,509 m. Five different sub-valleys, narrow gorges, glaciated summits, innate and cultivated landscapes as well as an extraordinary biodiversity are the defining characteristics of the "Nature Park of the Year 2015".

We invite you to discover the Nature Park together with our guides and find out more about the region. There is something to suit everyone – with hikes to the Berlin Hut, herbal walks, the Alpine Pastures Experience Zillergrund, the forest pixie day or an ascent to Mount Ahorn's peak with Peter Habeler.

We highly recommend a visit to the Nature Park House, as well as staying with one of our partner companies who work in close collaboration with the Nature Park. Guests of our partner companies can participate in all our hikes and visit the exhibition at the Nature Park House for free.

The Nature Park is waiting to be discovered by you!

The Nature Park Team, Manager Willi Seifert, Katharina Weiskopf, Karin Bauer

Presentation series "Magical Moments in the Nature Park"

Impressions, interesting facts and hiking tips for our visitors

Nature photographer and Nature Park Ranger, Herbert Grasl, accompanies visitors to the most beautiful spots in the Tux Valley and tells them about the region's special characteristics. He has captured many a magical moment with his camera. "Seen through the heart" - is how he describes the rugged, beautiful world amidst these high mountains. As Nature Park and Mountain Guide he is a hive of information on hiking in the Tux and Zillertal Alps.

The "Magical Moments" presentation takes place every Monday from 18.06 - 17.09.

Begins in Tux: 17.30 hrs at the Tux-Center, Lanersbach, in the "Gletschersaal"

Begins in Finkenberg: 20.30 hrs at Volksschule Finkenberg in the Aula (lobby)

Events 2018

Presentation: "Stone pine and its effect on humans" - Thu 19.07.

Stone pine is often referred to as the "Queen of the Alps" because it grows in very high mountain regions, where it often forms the tree line. Its wood is known to have beneficial effects on humans, and the most diverse stone pine products are now available. What is it all about? The stone pine tree species is the focus of this slideshow, during which the remarkable results of studies and the effects of stone pinewood are presented in easily understandable form, such as its possible beneficial influence on the human heart rate.

Lecture by DI Dr. Hubert Kammerlander: Thursday, 19.07., 20:00 hrs in Ginzling Mehrzwecksaal, free admission Presentation "Alpine Weather Kitchen-a vertical journey through the atmosphere"-Thu 09.08.

The Alps are a mighty mountain range in the middle of Europe, where nature places enormous demands on its inhabitants, visitors and, of course, the local flora and fauna. The weather exerts an incredible impact on the Alps, creating many special features and sometimes extreme conditions. Great fluctuations between mountain and valley, between the alpine regions and of course between the seasons are just a few examples. Under the expert guidance of meteorologist Dr. Span, we will delve into the weather phenomena of the Alps and take a look at other mountains on earth.

Lecture Dr. Norbert Span: Thursday, 09.08 at 20:00 at the Tux Center in Lanersbach, free admission Nature Park Festival and Steinbockmarsch - Sat 18.08.

Nature Park Festival for visitors of all ages in the mountaineering village of Ginzling - with a guided family hike and exciting children's and family programme in the festival grounds. Visitors can look forward to a whole host of adventure and handicraft stations focussed on the alpine ibex, as well as the Alpine Association's climbing tower. But that is not all; the Life Radio team will be also be in attendance and reporting live on all the action.

Family Adventures at the Tuxbach River

An exciting hike from Lanersbach to the Tux Mill

Starting from the Tux Center in Lanersbach, we set off on an exciting adventure tour along the rushing waters of the Tuxbach River. During this leisurely hike, we discover all sorts of interesting facts about the nature of the Tux Valley, which is known for its alpine grazing pastures and the glacier. We will enjoy various games and build our own small raft, which we send down the Tuxbach on its journey. Once at the Tux Mill, we immerse ourselves in the historic times of yesteryear. The mill, originally built in 1839, is still in operation during the summer months.

Suitable for children from the age of 5.

Forest Pixie day

An invitation to all budding natural scientists and their parents!

Children's programme in the amazing "Glocke" protected area. Together we can discover the Glocke, an island full of botanical features with a fascinating ravine forest. While we pretend to be forest pixies, we learn about the forest from the forest and investigate the Glocke using our imagination and creativity. The focus is on children and their natural inquisitiveness during this family hike.

Mythical Hike in Ginzling

Journey back in time to the world of the Dornauberg Giants

People still recall the legend of the Dornauberger Giants in the mountaineering village of Ginzling. They lived here for many years and left behind many traces of their existence. These signs can still be seen today - if you know exactly where to look for them. Only a few years ago, two young boys found a socalled "spiritual energy line", with which one can travel back to the time of the giants. They met Hedwig, Emil and Otto, the last three Dornauberger Giants. We join a "giant expert" in Ginzling to trace their tracks, and will discover fascinating information about the lives of the giants. Suitable for children from the age of 5.

The Mill Clatters...

The mountain farmers of Brandberg live and work, in the truest sense of the words, on the sunny side of life. Thanks to the favourable conditions, the people of Brandberg cultivated cereals at high altitudes around their farms until only a few decades ago. We bring the mountain farmers experiences to life, as we walk around the farms and trails to the Schrofen Mill. Once there, we grind flour from corn and discover the various grains that can grow in the mountains. We observe wildlife along the meadow's edge and solve the odd puzzle or two on the historic Mitterstall Barn. Our efforts are then rewarded with a tasting session of farmer's bread. Especially suitable for children aged 3 - 9 years.

Volunteer Projects on Alpine Farms

Working together with the Nature Park team

What do we do?

Management of alpine farms is becoming increasingly challenging due to structural changes in the agricultural sector. The Nature Park administration therefore supports mountain farmers' endeavours in preserving their alpine pastures - this year we are involved in helping the Grieralm (Tux) and the Brandberg mountain meadows at Kolmhaus. Together with Nature Park team, we help cut back shrubs and clear rocks and stones from grazing areas. Many alpine areas are at risk from bush encroachment, or mudslides and avalanches have left residual stone matter in the pastures. Your efforts will be a valuable contribution to promoting a pleasing bio-diversity in the meadows, as well as caring for the alpine grazing pastures. Become part of our volunteer team and savour the mountain panorama of the Zillertal Alps while you help! Please register with the Nature Park by phone or enter your details in our digital event calendar.

Meeting point: Details available by phone, or in the event calendar under www.naturpark-zillertal.at Dates Grieralm: 11.07. and 25.07. Date Kolmhaus: 14.08.

Pleasant village tour through Mayrhofen

From Europahaus into the secluded Scheulingwald Forest

After receiving information on the Zillertal Alps Nature Park, we walk through the Scheuling Forest, home to a particularly rich world of flora and fauna. This walk takes us through the village with its' assortment of historical buildings and into the protected area of the Scheuling Forest. We will then walk over the Zillersteg Bridge to Kumbichl, from where we have excellent views of the Ziller Gorge and Tuxer Gorge. Afterwards we will reach the sub-district of Dorf-Haus, which is particularly pretty with its old farmhouses. The knowledgeable Nature Park guides will tell you all about the cultural and natural features of the region.

Wild herb walk in Tux

Insider tips for your very own "natural pharmacy" of medicinal herbs

During our wild herb walks through forests and meadows, the natural enigmas of the Tux Valley are slowly revealed to us, as well as secrets about the healing powers of alpine herbs. This "natural pharmacy" is governed by the seasons and literally on our doorstep, where real treasures can be discovered at any time of the year. We discuss ancient knowledge on the healing powers of herbs, tree resins and roots, as well as their diverse applications and processing methods. The bus stop at the Hintertux Glacier (next to the Hintertuxerhof) is both meeting and starting point for this interesting tour through nature. From there, we head towards Bichlalm.

Out and about in the valley -the source of the Ziller River

From the source area in the upper Zillergrund to Häusling

From the terminus of the Zillergrund, we head briefly into the valley until we spot the headwaters of the river, from which the Zillertal Valley derives its name. We then walk leisurely out of the valley alongside the Ziller River, from Bärenbadalm at the entrance to Hundskehle. After about one hour, we reach the very quaint Gasthof in der Au. Another tributary valley, the "Sunder", branches off from here, which is very popular with climbing fans because of its imposing boulder blocks. Our route takes us from the Au past numerous alpine pastures and on to Häusling. In contrast to the steep, black rock ridges on the opposite side of the valley, the bright facade of the Chapel of Our Lady of the Snow shimmers a bright welcome in the distance. In Häusling we can take a break in the guest house before catching the bus back to Mayrhofen.

Botanical walk through a breathtaking ravine forest

The nature trail is located in a protected area called the Glocke, an island full of an interesting mix of geological and botanical rarities in the Nature Park member village of Finkenberg. Only three of this type of botanical rarity has remained intact in the Eastern European Alps since the Ice Age – and one of them is here in Finkenberg! Particularly impressive is the 70 metre deep Tux Stream Gorge and the legendary "Teufelsbrücke" – Devil's Bridge. Learn some interesting facts about this very special forest, its' historical uses, unique plant world and extraordinary geological features. This exciting round walk is full of mystery, unexpected secrets and interesting.

Through magical forests into the untamed Gunggl

Forest tour in a wild and romantic valley near Ginzling

Starting from the Nature Park House, walk along the "Ginzlinger Rundwanderweg" (Round Walk) for a short way, before turning off into the small Gunggl Valley. We follow an ancient, winding path uphill through a dense mountain forest. Whilst walking along this trail, we find out lots of exciting information about the forest and its inhabitants. As soon as we hear the bubbling waters of the stream, we know the Maxhütte can't be far off. The valley suddenly opens up to reveal wide grazing pastures and high peaks that mark the end of the valley. We walk a little further through lovely alpine pastures until we see a distinctive step in the topography, where small waterfalls tumble down into the valley basin. On the way back, we can stop at the quaint Max Hut and enjoy some welcome refreshments before our descent back to Ginzling.

From the Ziller River to the Talbach Waterfall

Discovering the treasures of the valley floor

From Hippach-Ramsau station, we walk along the banks of the Ziller River for a short distance before turning off along the "Laimacher Waldweg" (Laimach Forest Trail). Just above the valley floor we make our way down-valley along the forest edge, while enjoying fabulous views of the well-kept cultural landscapes of the Nature Park Region. The undulating trail leads us to the impressive Talbach-Waterfall. After crossing a bridge and following a quaint forest trail, we arrive at the residential area of the market town of Zell am Ziller. The tour ends at Zell railway station, where we can catch the train back to Mayrhofen.

Tux Magnesite Mine

On the trail of the Tux Valley mining history

Before the first tourists discovered the Tux Valley, the highest mining and metallurgical plant in Europe was located there at 1,700 m above sea level. Until its closure in 1976, magnesite mining provided gainful employment for up to 400 workers. A special company-owned housing estate with elementary school, canteen, department store, cinema and ski lift sweetened the lives of working-class families. We will walk to the Barbara Chapel with its beautiful frescoes by Tyro-lean painter, Max Weiler, and learn interesting details on the history of this impressive company as we walk to the for-mer factory premises. We will also hear at first-hand how the rock was transported from the mountain down to the valley. An interesting panoramic hike with fantastic views of the Tux and Zillertal Alps!

Natural monument Schrauben Waterfall Walk to the Waterfall in Hintertux

The Tux waterfalls thunder and roar down into the valley and an imposing natural spectacle awaits us on this walk. Deep rock basins, natural rock bridges, caves, gorges and the Schrauben Waterfall, a protected natural monument, will simply take your breath away! We will immediately be able to see the Kessel Falls at the start of the walk and then we will head up to the Schrauben Waterfall. Following a narrow forest trail, we will walk through the forest preserve and pass the so-called whales mouth, a rock formation that actually looks like the mouth of a fish. Highpoints of this walk are amazing Gorge and the stunningly beautiful valley at Waldeben. From there we will walk back down to the base station of the lifts.

Weitental: Heavenly and flower-strewn valley

Colourful alpine flowers, waterfall and marmots!

Our exciting tour begins after a short gondola ride to the Sommerbergalm. The first section takes us uphill along an adventure-filled trail through the "Tux. Worlds". We leave this and can already see the Tuxer Joch-Haus, which offers fabulous views of the surrounding mountains. Leaving the refuge hut behind us, we enter the idyllic Weitental Valley and its treasure-trove of exciting experiences. In addition to the vast array of colourful alpine flowers, many marmots have made this valley their home. You are bound to see them eating, playing or indulging in a spot of sunbathing in the alpine pastures. The gorge at the end of the valley is yet another highlight. The trail leads alongside the mountain stream, which sinks deeper and deeper until it plunges into the depths of a beautiful waterfall. After the waterfall, we stroll leisurely through the alpine terrain and sparse woodlands back to Hintertux.

Traces of the Stone Age at Pfitscher Joch

Exciting journey into the history of the Pfitscher Joch

We will walk to the Pfitscher Joch, a striking alpine crossing from South Tyrol to the Zillertal Valley and the site of some recent sensational Stone Age finds! During our journey back in time we will walk along the same paths used by Stone Age hunters. Back then, where you found animals, you could find people. They followed the animals, thereby ensuring their own survival. Elevated look-out points, a Stone Age camp and former "workshops" can often be seen right next to the trail – we gain an intense insight into the lives of the mountain folk. The exciting "Boundless Pfitscher Joch "exhibition at the Lavitzalm - which we will visit - is dedicated to this theme. We can also learn interesting facts on the "eternal ice" and how glaciers have shaped the landscape.

Tour of alpine meadows in the mountaineering village of Ginzling Along narrow trails and through fantastic cultural landscapes

We walk past the historic "Fürstenhaus" (royal house) and its picturesque chapel and up to the Paschbergalm (1,358 m). From there we continue along the "Almrunde" and over a moderate incline until the Oberböden

(1.533 m), over which the beautiful Wildalm alpine farm extends. Across from us the Floite and Gunggl, two tributary valleys of Ginzling, open up and we can see the glaciated peaks of the Zillertal Alps in the background. Time and time again, we come across hand-built stone walls that characterise the landscape - some of them are already several centuries old. The trail then leads from Oberböden back down to Innerböden (1,301 m), where we stop and savour the peace of the mountain. It does not take long to walk back down to Ginzling from here, where we can also visit the interactive Glacier. Worlds exhibition at the Nature Park House.

Tettensjoch: High above the Tux Valley

Expedition through the stages of vegetation in alpine landscapes

Accompany one of the Nature Park guides on a foray. We take a taxi up to around 2.000 metres above sea level near Elsalm Farm. From here, we follow a forest trail in an easterly direction, whilst savouring magnificent views over the Tux Alps, Zillertal Valley and Reichenspitz Mountains. An old hunting trail takes us high up over the alpine pastures to Tettensioch

(2,276 m). Rock glaciers, moraines and a double mountain ridge dominate the landscape. During the descent to Löschbodenalm Farm and the Höllenstein Hut (1,710 m) we traverse high grazing pastures, the dwarf shrub belt and reach the natural treeline with larch, pine and spruce. The final stage takes us along an old trail and into the sub-district of Klausboden, before heading back to Lanersbach. An exciting hike for every hobby nature photographer.

2-Summit Tour in Schwendberg

Mountain ridge hike from Melchboden into the Tux Alps

From Melchboden bus stop, we quickly leave the hustle and bustle of the high road behind us and reach the Arbiskopf (2,133 m) after only a short while. An almost Scandinavian-like landscape stretches out ahead of us, which we can admire from the second summit, the Rauenkopf (2,268 m). The surrounding meadows are strewn with hollows, wetlands and alpine flowers and are used as high alpine grazing pastures for cattle in summer. Our easy walk along the mountain ridge finally ends when we turn left shortly before the ascent to Kreuzjoch and soon reach the Rastkogelhütte (2,117 m). After enjoying some refreshments, we continue on to Sidanalm and walk back down via Schafleitenalm to Mösl (1,387 m), where we can catch the bus back down to the valley.

Wild and romantic Bodenalm

Fabulous hike with an alpine snack made from regional products

Bodenalm is located at 1,700 m above sea level in Zillergrund, the longest tributary valley in the Zillertal Alps Nature Park. The Bodenalm is particularly special because it is one of the last dairy alps in Tyrol with no road infrastructure, and is therefore only accessible on foot. A narrow trail, partly carved into the rock, leads from Häusling and its beautiful Maria Schnee - Our Lady of the Snows Chapel - up to the alpine dairy farm. The hike offers an impressive insight into the daily and arduous work of the alpine farmers. The Grundschartner (3,057 m), whose striking northern ridge attracts many ambitious climbers every year, towers over the Bodenalm. After an ascent of around 1½ hours, with some steep sections, a hearty alpine snack with local products awaits, which we enjoy whilst taking in the incredible panorama surrounding the Bodenalm.

Out and about with hunters in the Tux Valley

Junsalm in the Tux Valley, nestled at the foot the Kalkwand Mountain, offers some very rewarding hiking routes. The variety of plants and abundance of wild animals is unique here. A hunter will accompany you along the way to Lake Junssee and, with a bit of luck, will see chamois, marmots and golden eagle on their morning forays. You will find out more about the behaviour and characteristics of the wildlife, hunting and the evelopment of human settlements in the Tux Valley. Unterschrammachkar: Natural Gem below the Olperer Neumarkter Route to the Olperer Hut

We start our fantastic high alpine tour at Schlegeis and walk from Zamsgatterl up to the picturesque Unterschrammachkar. The meandering brook, numerous wetlands and colourful alpine grasses all add to its special appeal. We then cross the bubbling brook and hike along a well laid-out panoramic trail to the Olperer Hut (2,389 m). We gradually get closer to a rise in the terrain, which offers us a tantalising peek of the mountain refuge hut. Before we stop there, however, we make a short detour to the suspension bridge just above the hut - and make the most of a great photo opportunity! Once arrived and having enjoyed a welcome rest at the Olperer Hut, we can enjoy impressive views of the highest peaks of the Zillertal Alps and the glacier at Schlegeis. From Stoankasern to Lake Junssee and the Geier Peak

From the Tux Center, we take one of the hiking taxis to Stoankasern, where the last mountain dairy in the Zillertal Valley can be found. From thereon, we walk initially though some lovely alpine pastures, accompanied by the inquisitive stares of the local population of marmots. After a few terrace-like steps in the terrain, our path turns to the right and surmounts a steep, grassy slope over a number of hairpin bends and a short rocky section, secured by steel cable. Once we have managed to pass this section, we will be rewarded with views of the magnificent Lake Junssee, which now lies at our feet. Alpine Hike with Peter Habeler

Join him on his favourite mountain

Which mountain sports enthusiast doesn't dream of doing a tour with a worldfamous alpinist, and maybe get to hear a story or two about his expeditions? With Peter Habeler, who has already climbed five eight-thousand-metre peaks, you have the chance to do that. The peak of his career was the firstever ascent of Mt. Everest without additional oxygen together with Reinhold Messner in 1978. On this hike you can conquer your inner demons and climb your own "Everest"! Our tour takes you from the mountain station of the Ahorn cable car to the Edelhütte. From there, the trail leads over grassy slopes and scree fields up to a saddle where the steep, rocky steep climb begins along the western ridge, leading to the summit of Mt. Ahorn at 2,976 m above sea level.

the Mehlerhaus will host the OLPERER¹⁵⁰ exhibition. dedicated to alpine history and the natural environment surrounding this glacier mountain, which was first climbed in 1867. Visitors can also enjoy other permanent exhibitions in the building! Open from July - Sept. on mondays & fridays from 13:00 to 18:00!

Cultur.Landscape.Worlds - Mitterstall / Brandberg Cultural.Landscape.Worlds - one of the mountain farming cultural monuments in the Nature Park Region is the Mitterstall (Mitter Barn). After renovation work was completed on this listed building. Mitterstall forms the centre piece of a Nature Park exhibition called. "Brandberg - our cultural landscape through the ages". The exhibition is spread over three ne farmers had to endure, with details on the characteristic landscapes of pastures, mountain meadows and includes personal stories about the local people.

Open daily in summer. Free admission!

"Steinbock.Worlds" - Zillergrund

Ibex.Worlds in Zillergrund. The alpine ibex is an animal that has a deeply rooted tradition at the Zillertal Alps Nature Park and, until recently, a very chequered history. Up until the beginning of the 17th century there was a population of several hundred animals, which was eradicated in a few years. Despite attempts to reintroduce ibex to the Zillertal Valley, only imited success has been enjoyed. A small population currently lives wild in the depths of the valleys, although seldom seen by visitors to the Nature Park. You can find out interesting information on the ibex at the Steinbock. Welten in Zillergrund, as well as enjoy the opportunity to see a few live examples up close. Open daily in summer. Free admission!

"Glacier.Worlds" - Nature Park House Ginzling

This is no exhibition in the normal sense of the word: No glass showcases, no boring information boards, but rather interactive, multimedia stations with a hands-on approach: see, touch and comprehend. The public Alpine Library is also located in the house. A small selection of books and maps as well as Nature Park gifts with our "Zillertaler Gletscherfloh" logo is available for sale at the Nature Park Shop. ... Open daily in summer from 8.30 - 12.00 & 13.00 - 17.00 hours!
